Section 2: How super works

Contributions

Superannuation (super) is a way of saving for retirement which is, in part, compulsory. Most Australian employers are required by Government legislation to contribute a percentage of the ordinary time earnings of their employees into the employee's nominated super fund (called Superannuation Guarantee (SG) contributions). If an employee doesn't nominate a fund, the contributions are made to the employer's default fund.

Most people have a right to choose into which superannuation entity their employer should direct their SG contributions (called 'Choice of Fund'). Contact your employer to check whether you can make a Choice of Fund. Further information about SG Contributions and Choice of Fund is available from www.ato.gov.au/super.

Accumulation

Any SG contributions, plus any extra contributions you've made, are invested for you into your super account according to the investment strategy you've chosen (see Section 5 of this PDS for more information about our investment options).

Over the course of your working life, these contributions 'accumulate', together with any investment earnings (which may be positive or negative), so that when you leave the workforce you'll have money to fund your retirement.

You can help your super savings accumulate by making extra contributions. The types of extra contributions you can make include additional employer contributions (salary sacrifice contributions) and personal contributions (which can be made on a non-tax deductible or tax deductible basis). Depending on your income and other eligibility criteria, you might also be eligible for one of the Government's low income support initiatives. There are limitations on contributions to superannuation and your total accumulated super savings which may affect the acceptance of contributions by a super fund, the amount of tax payable on contributions and/or the amount of super savings you can take in the form of an unrestricted account based pension.

You can also choose to transfer super you have in another fund into your account.

Super is a lifetime investment that has many benefits. It receives concessional tax treatment, which means tax savings are provided by the Government. You'll find information about the tax treatment of super in Section 7 of this PDS.

Withdrawals

There are restrictions on withdrawals from super. You can access your super savings once you retire or when you reach your preservation age.

Your preservation age is shown in the table below:

If you were born:	Your preservation age is:
Before 1 July 1960	55
1 July 1960 – 30 June 1961	56
1 July 1961 – 30 June 1962	57
1 July 1962 – 30 June 1963	58
1 July 1963 – 30 June 1964	59
1 July 1964 or after	60

Your super may also be accessible in other limited circumstances which include your death, diagnosis with a terminal illness, permanent incapacity and financial hardship. These are called 'conditions of release'. For more information, see www.ato.gov.au/super.

Portability

You can transfer super in or out of the Fund at any time, so long as it remains in the superannuation system until you reach your preservation age or otherwise meet a condition of release and, if you make a partial transfer request, a minimum balance of $1,000 is retained in your account. Your partial transfer request will not be processed if it results in an account balance of less than $1,000. If you are invested in a Term Deposit, a request to transfer your super may not be able to be processed within the usual (maximum) 30 day timeframe and the accrual of interest on the Deposit may be affected.

General information about super is available from www.moneysmart.gov.au.

Compulsory Payment of super to the Australian Taxation Office (ATO)

In some circumstances, we are required to report and transfer benefits in the Fund to the Australian Taxation Office. This includes unclaimed money at age 65 or death; super belonging to lost members; and super belonging to an inactive member who holds a product with a balance of less than $6,000 (some exceptions apply). For more information refer to the 'Accessing your benefits' fact sheet. Where we are required to pay super benefits to the ATO, we must do so even if we have not been able to contact you about this. You can claim your benefits from the ATO (eg request that they be rolled over to your nominated fund) or the ATO may transfer the benefits to another 'active' super account you may have.

For more information about how super works, including more information about contributions and withdrawals refer to the 'Contributions' fact sheet and 'Accessing your benefits' fact sheet available by going to the Defence Bank Super website at www.defencebank.com.au or on request by phoning 1800 979 188. You should read this important information about how super works before making a decision. The information relating to how super works may change between the time you read this PDS and the day when you acquire this product.

Section 4: Risks of super

Like all investments, super carries an element of risk. When considering your investment in super, it's important to remember that:

- » Different investment strategies (options) may carry different levels of risk depending on the assets that make up the strategy. The significant risks that may be relevant to our investment options include market risk, investment specific risk, currency risk, country risk, liquidity risk and operational risk.
- » Assets with the highest long term returns (such as shares and property) may also carry the highest level of short term risk.
- » The value of your investment will vary.
- » The level of returns will vary, and future returns may differ from past returns.
- » Returns are not guaranteed and it is possible to lose some of your money.
- » Superannuation laws may change in the future.
- » The amount of your future super savings (including contributions and returns) may not be enough to provide adequately for your retirement.

- » Your level of risk will vary depending on a range of factors including your age, investment timeframe, where other parts of your wealth are invested and your risk tolerance.
- » Your investments or the returns on any of your selected investments are not guaranteed.

Section 5 of this PDS contains the risk profile of our Balanced investment option.

For more information about risks, including the risk profile of other investment options, refer to the 'Investments' fact sheet available by going to the Defence Bank Super website at www.defencebank.com.au or on request by phoning 1800 979 188. The information relating to risks may change between the time you read this PDS and the day when you acquire this product.

Section 6: Fees and costs

Did you know?

Small differences in both investment performance and fees and costs can have a substantial impact on your long term returns. For example, total annual fees and costs of 2% of your account balance rather than 1% could reduce your final return by up to 20% over a 30 year period (for example, reduce it from $100,000 to $80,000).

You should consider whether features such as superior investment performance or the provision of better member services justify higher fees and costs.

You or your employer, as applicable, may be able to negotiate to pay lower fees. Ask the fund or your financial adviser.

To find out more

If you'd like to find out more, or see the impact of the fees based on your own circumstances, the Australian Securities and Investments Commission (ASIC) website (www.moneysmart.gov.au) has a superannuation calculator to help you check out different fee options. The calculator contained on the Australian Securities & Investments Commission (ASIC) website can be used to calculate the effect of fees and costs on your account balance.

Defence Bank Super is not an employer default fund and fund fees cannot be negotiated either by your employer or yourself.

Fees and costs can be paid directly from your account or may be deducted from investment returns or Fund assets. You can use the fees and costs information below to compare costs between different superannuation products.

The fees and costs are the same for all investment options, except for the indirect cost ratio and percentage based administration fees, which vary depending on the investment option. The fees and costs for our Balanced investment option, are shown below.

Defence Bank Super – Balanced option
Type of fee	Amount	How and when paid
Investment fee ¹	Nil	N/A (however indirect investment costs are included in the indirect cost ratio).
Administration fee ¹	$30 p.a. PLUS an estimated 0.6336% p.a. of the option's assets.	The $30 Administration fee is deducted from your account in arrears at the end of the month or on account closure. Deducted from relevant Fund assets before unit prices for the Balanced option are calculated (usually daily). It is not deducted directly from your account.
Buy-sell spread	Buy cost: Estimated up to 0.06% Sell cost: Estimated up to 0.06%	The cost will be reflected in the buy or sell price of the Balanced option.
Switching fee	For investment options other than Term Deposits 3 free switches per financial year. $25 for each switch thereafter in the financial year.	Deducted from your account for the 4th and any subsequent switch in a year.
Advice fees Relating to all members investing in a particular investment option.	Nil	N/A
Other fees and costs ²	Various	Deducted from your account after an activity triggering an activity fee occurs or, monthly in arrears, if you have insurance cover.
Indirect Cost Ratio (ICR) ^{1,3}	Estimated 0.1550% of assets p.a.	Indirect costs are deducted outside the Fund before the Balanced option's returns are received by the Fund and are reflected in the calculation (usually daily) of unit prices for the option.

² Other fees and costs, such as activity fees (for example, Term Deposit withdrawal fees and family law related fees) or insurance fees, may apply. Further information is available in the 'Additional Explanation of Fees and Costs section' in the Fees and Costs Fact sheet. The Trustee may also impose a fee to increase the Operational Risk Reserve (ORFR) should the ORFR drop below the required level.

³ The ICR is an estimate for the 2018/19 financial year, based on the estimated investment related costs incurred for the 12 months ended 30 June 2019. Actual costs may vary depending on the investment option(s) you choose. It may change from year to year. If actual costs vary considerably from this estimate, the estimate will be updated.

'Defined Fees'

The definition of each fee listed in the fee table above can be viewed in the 'Fees and Costs' fact sheet.

For more information about the fees and costs including defined fees, and fees and costs applicable to all of the investment options, refer to the 'Fees and Costs' fact sheet available by going to the Defence Bank Super website at www.defencebank.com.au or on request by phoning 1800 979 188. You should read this important information about fees and costs before making a decision. The information relating to fees and costs may change between the time you read this PDS and the day when you acquire this product.

Operational Risk Financial Requirement (ORFR) Reserve

The purpose of the ORFR Reserve is to protect members' interests should an operational failure occur that may result in losses to a fund or its members. The reserve is held solely in cash and held as an asset of the Fund. The Trustee is obliged to review its ORFR arrangements regularly to ensure it is set at an appropriate level and to make any changes necessary to ensure regulatory requirements continue to be met. As at the date of preparation of this document, the ORFR meets its target level of 0.25% of net assets, however the ORFR level is subject to change. If such a change results in the ORFR falling below the required level at any time, additional deductions from members accounts may be required.

Example of annual fees and costs

This table gives an example of how the fees and costs in the Balanced investment option for this superannuation product can affect your superannuation investment over a one year period. You should use this table to compare this superannuation product with other superannuation products. The example is based on the Balanced investment option because this is the option in which most assets of the Fund are invested.

Type of fee	Amount	Balance of $50,000
Investment Fees	N/A	For every $50,000 you have in the superannuation product you will be charged $0 each year.
PLUS Administration Fees	$30 ($2.50 per month) + 0.6336%	And , you will be charged $30 in administration fees regardless of your balance plus $316.80 depending on your balance.
PLUS Indirect costs for the superannuation product	0.1550%	And , indirect costs of $78 each year will be deducted from your investment.
EQUALS Cost of product		If your balance was $50,000, then for that year you will be charged fees of: $424.80* for the superannuation product.

* Additional fees may apply. And, if you leave the Fund you may be charged a buy-sell spread applies which may also apply whenever you make a contribution, exit, rollover or investment switch. The sell spread for exiting is an estimated 0.06% (this will equal an estimated $30 for every $50,000 you withdraw).

Things you should know:

- » The Trustee can change the amount of fees without your consent. Any material increases in fees will be notified at least 30 days in advance, where required by law. Estimated fees and costs may vary from year to year depending on the experience of the product and its underlying investments. Estimates shown above are based on Fund data (including data provided by underlying investment vehicles) for the Balanced option for the 2018/2019 year. Actual fees and costs may be higher than estimated fees and may be met from Fund assets or returns received from underlying investment vehicles.
- » Some fees (the $30 administration fee, family law and Term Deposit related fees) may be indexed annually based on changes to Average Ordinary Time Earnings.

Section 7: How super is taxed

Super is a tax effective way to grow your retirement savings, as generally any taxes applicable to super are at a concessional (lower) rate, provided you have advised us of your Tax File Number (TFN). A summary of the main tax rules relating to super is provided below. As individual circumstances may differ, you should seek tax advice from a suitably qualified professional about your personal circumstances.

You should provide your TFN when you start your account. You're not required by law to do so, but if we aren't provided with your TFN we will not open an account for you as we will be unable to accept all types of contributions for you, the tax on superannuation benefits may be higher and finally it may be more difficult to locate any lost super benefits or consolidate your superannuation. Concessional tax rates do not apply to contributions which exceed Government contribution limits.

Tax on contributions

The tax paid on super contributions depends on the amount and type of contribution. Tax is deducted after the contribution is received. There are limits on how much you can contribute, and if you exceed these limits you may pay extra tax.

Concessional contributions, such as employer contributions and deductible personal contributions are usually subject to a tax rate of 15%. The tax rate is higher for individuals with high levels of income ($250,000 or more, based on calculations in tax legislation) payable by the individual personally. Non-concessional contributions, such as non-deductible personal contributions are usually not subject to tax at all. However, if your concessional contributions or non-concessional contributions in a financial year exceed Government contribution limits, additional taxes, will ordinarily apply. Sometimes this may result in the additional taxes being deducted from the Fund, however usually you will be personally responsible for additional taxes. The contributions you can make or receive, and the tax you pay, will also depend on how much super savings you have in the Australian super system (referred to as your 'total super balance').

Sometimes you may be able to obtain a refund of contributions in excess of the contribution limit, however you may still have to pay additional tax directly to the Australian Tax Office.

We will deduct contributions tax that the Fund is liable for when contributions are allocated to your account and remit it to the Australian Tax Office quarterly or as otherwise required by the Tax Office. We will also deduct any additional tax relating to contributions in excess of contribution limits from your account, where we are required to remit this tax to the Australian Tax Office.

Tax on investment earnings

Investment earnings are generally taxed at a rate of up to 15%, after allowing for credits, rebates and deductions.

Tax on withdrawals

Once you have turned 60, your lump sum super benefit is tax free.

If you are under age 60 but have reached your preservation age, the taxable component of lump sum superannuation payments is usually subject to tax at the maximum rate of 15% (plus Medicare levy).

A tax free threshold, which varies from year to year, applies.

Death benefits paid to dependants and terminal illness benefits are also generally tax free.

Tax benefits

An income tax offset is available in relation to contributions made for a low income or non-working eligible spouse provided eligibility criteria in tax laws are met. You may also be able to claim a deduction for personal contributions you make towards your own superannuation provided you meet eligibility criteria in tax laws (the ability to claim a tax deduction is not limited to self employed or substantially self employed individuals).

Further information about tax, including contribution limits and the impact of your total super balance; refunds of contributions in excess of contribution limits (where permissible); tax rates applicable to contributions, investment earnings and withdrawals; and eligibility criteria for the spouse contributions offset and tax deductions for personal contributions, is available from www.ato.gov.au. Tax rules are subject to change. For updated information go to the ATO's website or contact us.

Section 8: Insurance in your super

We understand the importance of insurance cover to protect you and your family from life's uncertainties. That's why we provide access to an affordable insurance cover that you can pay for directly out of your super account.

Insurance cover is provided by the Insurer under the insurance policy issued to the Trustee. The types of insurance cover available to you as a member of this product are:

- » Death only cover (including terminal illness cover); or
- » Death and total and permanent disablement (TPD) cover (including terminal illness cover); or
- » Salary Continuance cover (Income Protection) (unless you are engaged in a hazardous occupation such as a pilot or aeroplane crew).

When you become a member of Defence Bank Super and if you are eligible, you will automatically receive competitive death only or death and TPD insurance cover within your superannuation account ranging from $250,000 to $300,000 of death only or death and TPD cover, depending on your age. From age 66 to 70 (next birthday) death only automatic cover applies. It is a convenient, easy, way to add to your superannuation benefit and ease financial strain, should the unexpected happen.

It is important to note that any automatic cover is subject to a 'pre-existing conditions' exclusion. This means that a death or TPD benefit will not be payable for any claim which is directly or indirectly related to a pre-existing condition that existed in the five years prior to or at the time your cover commenced in Defence Bank Super.

You may choose to reduce or cancel your automatic death only or death and TPD cover at any time by notifying us at the time you complete your Application for Membership, on line via www.defencebank.com.au or by writing to us at Defence Bank Super, GPO Box 4559, Melbourne VIC 3001.

For more information on the automatic cover, eligibility rules and the pre-existing conditions exclusion, refer to the 'Automatic acceptance cover' section in the 'Insurance' fact sheet.

In addition to the automatic cover, the product offers a flexible insurance package that can be tailored to meet your individual needs. You may elect to have voluntary cover within your superannuation account. This can include additional death and TPD cover or Income Protection cover.

How to apply for insurance cover

If you are not eligible for automatic death and TPD cover and would like some or wish to obtain additional death and TPD cover ('voluntary insurance cover') you must submit a Personal Statement form with your Application for Membership form (or other form required by the Trustee or Insurer). You may be requested to provide additional health or other evidence required by the Insurer, which will be assessed by the Insurer. You can also apply for voluntary Income Protection insurance cover. (Please refer to the 'Insurance' fact sheet for further details on voluntary insurance cover).

Insured benefits are not payable in certain circumstances (called 'exclusions') refer to the 'Exclusions - Death/TPD' and 'Exclusions - Income Protection' sections in the 'Insurance' fact sheet.

Your insurance cover ceases in certain circumstances including when the maximum insurable age is reached or there is insufficient money in your account to pay for cover. Also, from 1 July 2019, we are required by the Government to cease your insurance cover if your account has been inactive for 16 continuous months, unless we have received an election from you to maintain your insurance cover even if the account becomes inactive for this period. For the purposes of this requirement, an inactive account is one for which no amount (eg contributions, rollins) is received by the Trustee for you. Please contact us on 03 9691 2944 for further information. The election to maintain cover does not override the other circumstances in which cover may cease.

There are costs associated with automatic or voluntary insurance cover. The cost of your insurance cover will be calculated based on your age next birthday (as defined in the insurance policy), gender, occupation, health status, smoking status and amount of cover. The standard annual costs for automatic death and TPD cover range from $0.53 to $36.74 per $1,000 sum insured (for males in white collar occupations) and from $0.28 to $25.18 per $1,000 sum insured (for females in white collar occupations), however higher premiums may apply depending on your occupational classification.

If you have insurance (automatic or voluntary), you are responsible for making sure that there are sufficient funds in your account for paying the cost of your insurance. Insurance premiums will be deducted directly from your super account, monthly in arrears.

Please Note: Unless you cancel any automatic cover provided to you or cover ceases for some other reason, the cost of this cover will be deducted from your account.

Please refer to the 'Insurance' fact sheet by going to the Defence Bank Super website at www.defencebank.com.au for more information about insurance including when cover starts and ends, eligibility criteria for commencement of cover and payment of insured benefit, the level and types of cover available, premium costs, exclusions, and other important terms and conditions. Please remember that the information relating to insurance may change between the time you read this PDS and the day when you acquire this product.

Insurance terms and conditions (in particular, eligibility criteria, cover cessation circumstances and exclusions) may affect your entitlement to insurance cover or the payment of insured benefits, so you should read the 'Insurance' fact sheet before deciding whether insurance is appropriate for you.

Section 9: How to open an account

Opening an account is easy. Unlike many other superannuation products, Defence Bank Super has been designed for you to open and manage your account online.

To open your account you'll need to complete the Application Form after reading this PDS and other relevant information and submit it to us. You must make an investment choice on the Application Form; however you must read the 'Investments' fact sheet before doing so.

If the Trustee is not able to issue a superannuation interest in the Fund (membership) within one business day of receiving application monies (for example, because you have not made an investment choice), the monies will be held in a separate trust account until an interest in the Fund can be issued or the monies are refunded or are otherwise dealt with in accordance with relevant legislative requirements. Any trust account earnings are retained within the Fund for the benefit of Fund members.

Cooling off period

If you change your mind after you apply to open an account, you can cancel your account within 14 days from the end of the fifth day after the account is opened or you receive confirmation of the account's establishment (whichever is earlier).

If you do cancel your membership during the cooling off period, the amount that is repaid to you (subject to the Government's preservation rules) will be adjusted to take account of any increase or decrease in the value of the investments you selected, reasonable costs and any tax payable on that amount.
